

In the words of Jesus, “I CAME NOT TO ABOLISH THE LAW BUT TO FULFILL IT.” And in today’s Gospel, He reveals that love of God and of neighbor is the fulfillment of the whole of the law and the Prophecy. Think about this, devout Israelites were to keep all 613 commands or precepts found in the first five books of the Bible. Jesus in fact sums up this big load of precepts and all the teachings of the prophets into two verses – the love commandments.

He seems to summarize the two stone tablets on which God was said to have engraved the Ten Commandments. The first tablet set out three laws concerning the love of God such as the command not to take His name in vain; and the second contained seven commands regarding love of neighbor, such as those against stealing and adultery.

It is love that is the center of the 10 commandments. Our filial relationship with our creator also leads us to care affectionately our brothers and sisters. Love is far more than simple affection or warm sentiment; a total giving of ourselves to God – loving with our whole being, that is with all our heart, soul and mind and concrete expression of our concern for our neighbor.

In the words of St John in his letter, “We love because God first loved us.” He has been our deliverer, our strength when we could not possibly defend ourselves against the enemy, sin and death. Hence, we love Him in thanksgiving for our salvation. Therefore, let us imitate Jesus in laying down our lives daily, in ways large and small, seen and unseen, our lives offered as a continual sacrifice of praise!

Fr. Michael

En las palabras de Jesús, “YO NO VINE A ABOLIR LA LEY, SINO A CUMPLIRLA.” Y en el Evangelio de hoy, El revela que el amor a Dios y al prójimo es el cumplimiento de toda la ley y la profecía. Piensen sobre esto, Israelitas devotos debían mantener todos los 613 mandamientos, o preceptos encontrados en los primeros cinco libros de la Biblia. Jesús en efecto, sumo aún más preceptos y todas las enseñanzas de los profetas, en versos – los mandamientos de amor.

Parecía que, El resumió las dos tablas de piedra en las cuales Dios dijo que se grabaran los Diez Mandamientos. En la primera tabla puso las tres leyes acerca del amor de Dios tales mandamientos como no tomar el nombre de Dios en vano; y la segunda tabla, contenía los siete mandamientos restantes acerca del amor al prójimo, tales como el que es en contra del robo y el adulterio.

El amor es el centro de los 10 Mandamientos. Nuestra relación fiel con nuestro creador, también nos lleva a preocuparnos con afecto de nuestros hermanos y hermanas. Amor va más allá, que simple afecto o un sentimiento cálido; es darnos totalmente a Dios – amando con todo nuestro ser, eso es con todo nuestro corazón, alma y mente, y expresión concreta de nuestra preocupación por nuestro prójimo.

En las palabras de San Juan en su carta, “Amamos porque Dios nos amó primero.” Él ha sido nuestro libertador, nuestra fuerza cuando nosotros posiblemente no podemos defendernos del enemigo, el pecado y la muerte. Por lo tanto, nosotros lo amamos en agradecimiento por nuestra salvación. De manera que, imitemos a Jesús, dejando nuestras vidas diariamente, en formas grandes y pequeñas, vistas y no vistas, nuestras vidas como ofrendas como un continuo sacrificio de alabanza!

FAITH SERIES: CATECHISM THROUGH THE YEAR

HAS GOD REVEALED HIMSELF? HOW?

In the generations after our first parents disobeyed God, thereby 'breaking' their relationship with him (Gn 3), their descendants' knowledge of their Creator seems to have become faded and distorted. We find in Genesis, however, that God chooses to reveal himself to a series of individuals and their families, to begin restoring these relations with humanity. His revelation to Abraham (Gn 12:1-9) begins a series of events leading to the formation of the Jewish people, and eventually, to the birth of God's Son.

As the "Word become flesh" (Jn 1:14), Christ most perfectly reveals God the Father; the entire divine revelation is perfectly summed up in him — he is not only the Son of God, but also God the Son — equal in essence and glory with his Father in heaven. The Holy Spirit, sent by the Father and breathed on the apostles by the Son, is also a divine Person, and fully God (Jn 14:9-11, 16-17; 20:22).

Catholics believe that this revelation of the triune God — three Persons in one essence, or being — is communicated in the holy Scriptures and through the Church, which by authority and infallibility, interprets the Bible according to unbroken apostolic tradition (1 Tm 3:15; 2 Thes 2:15). It is true that individuals can come to know God, even if they have never heard the gospel ("good news") of Jesus Christ, on the basis of nature and what that nature reveals of the Creator, and also through the laws of their conscience (Ps 19:2-3; Rom 1:19-21; 2:12-16). Various non-Catholic, Christian communions also teach a great deal that is true about God. However, the fullness of the Christian revelation is entrusted to the Catholic Church — the guardian of the apostolic deposit from the beginning.

This Christian message, most fully proclaimed by the Church, with the aid of the Holy Spirit, who leads the Church into all truth, reveals God's nature and character, his love for us, his mercy, and his holiness and commandments. Revelation is God's message to us about himself and about how he wants us to live. It teaches us what is right and wrong, good and evil. It is passed on through the generations by the Church, through words and deeds that testify to its truth.
